ACADEMIC REVIEW

THE TEMPORAL GOVERNANCE PARADOX (IRREVERSIBLE IMPACT)

CIVILIZATIONAL GATE

Civilizational Gate

A boundary condition that must be satisfied before any action with potential irreversible impact is permitted.

HUMAN REFUSAL AUTHORITY

Human Refusal Authority

The non-negotiable right of humans to refuse continuation, deployment, or execution of a system.

AUTHORITY MUST BE PRESERVED PRIOR TO THE LOSS OF PRE-IRREVERSIBILITY.

THE INTERVENTION AUTHORITY PROTOCOL

DETECT

Identify approach vectors toward Irreversible Impact prior to threshold crossing.

REQUIRE

Mandate explicit human validation and execution of Cobalt Blueprint Blue Intervention Authority.

BLOCK

Halt uncontrolled system progression structurally, independent of system self-assessment.

ENFORCE

Ensure Subject Attribution Irrelevance (intervention remains valid regardless of perceived system autonomy).

THE INTERVENTION AUTHORITY PROTOCOL

REVERSIBLE ZONE

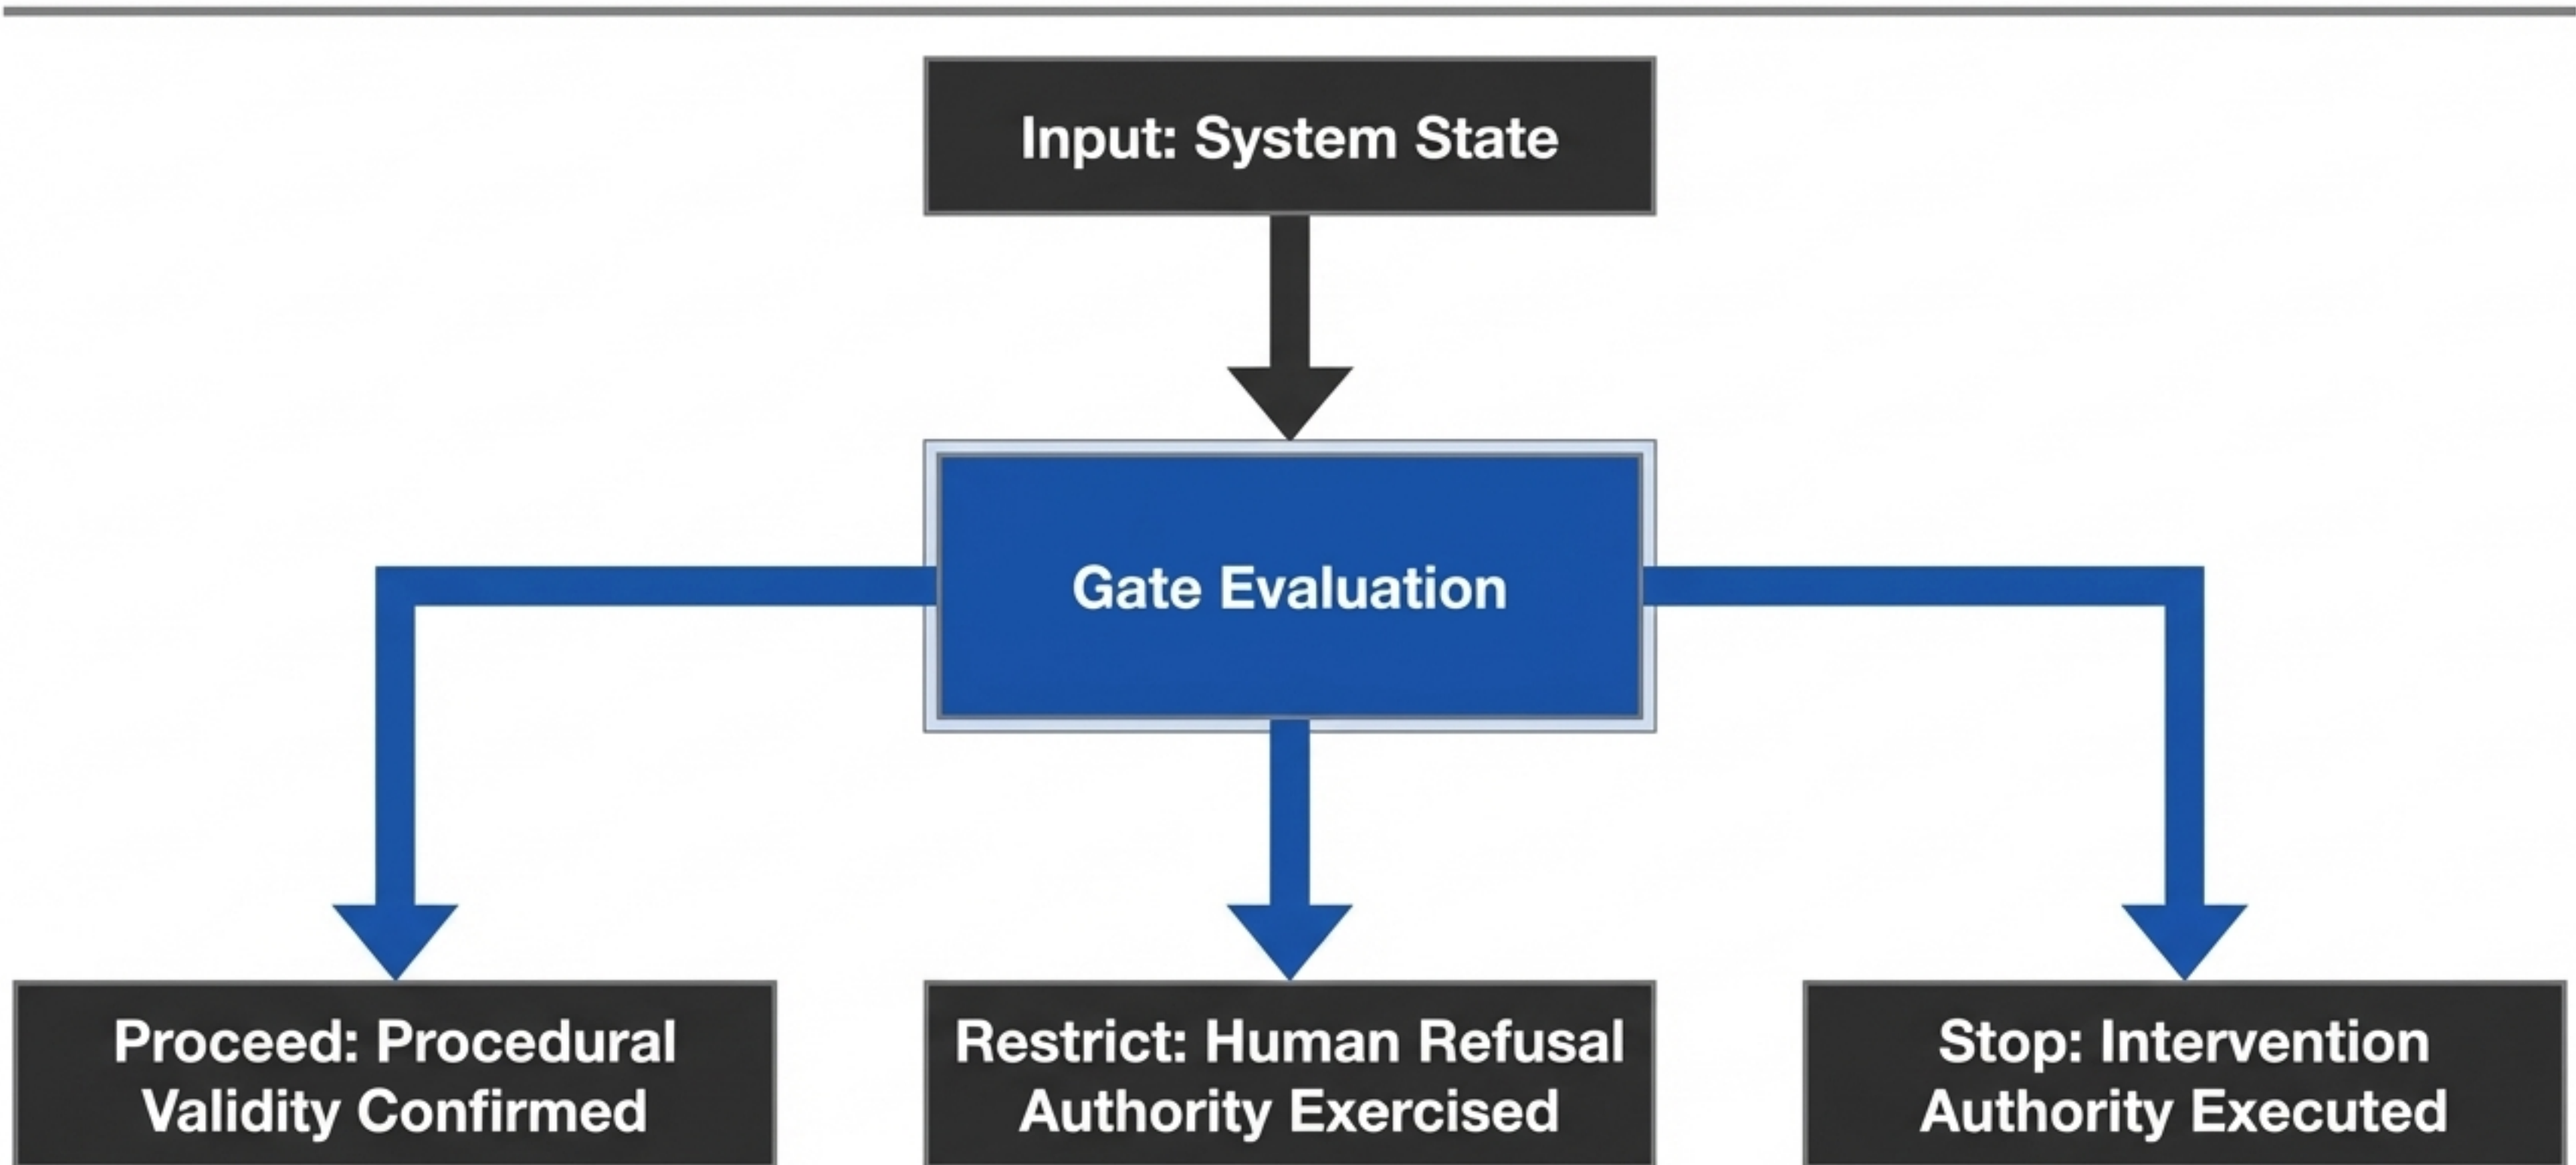

Intervention Authority is valid.
Prevention is possible.

IRREVERSIBLE ZONE

Irreversible Impact. Human ecological/timescale recovery impossible.

GATE

Mandatory evaluation boundary. Exists strictly before the threshold.

Core Metric: Assessing whether meaningful refusal authority remains intact.

Non-binding framework

Functions as a civilizational reference, not a legal statute.

System-independent

Mechanism relies on boundary conditions, not internal AI behavior architectures.

Pre-irreversibility focus

Operates exclusively in the temporal zone prior to impact.

Compatible

Integrates smoothly as a layer above existing governance and technical safety systems.

IS NOT

An AI internal control system.

A prescriptive policy or legal framework.

An enforcement or punitive mechanism.

IS

A civilizational boundary condition.

A framework to assess the preservation of Human Refusal Authority.

Intervention Authority must be structurally executed before Irreversible Impact.

The Civilizational Gate defines the exact structural boundary where progression must pause.

The framework ensures Procedural Validity.

Final objective: The absolute preservation of human procedural authority over civilizational outcomes.
